Nestled amidst the serene beauty of an ecological gated community in Guanacaste, this exquisite home combines a charming character with truly indoor-outdoor living. Stepping inside this warm, welcoming space, one is greeted by fresh tropical air, thanks to a design that features large windows on every wall of the home. The main living room feels as if a garden patio has been combined with a cozy, country house in the Mediterranean. If your dream is to breathe more fresh air and to truly enjoy the Costa Rica forest, there couldn't be a better space. Every surface has been lovingly decorated and the entire house is a work of art, showcasing Spanish colonial colors and Guanacaste's idyllic forest. One could live entirely on the first floor, with the master suite, kitchen and a sitting room off of the spacious main living space. Outdoors, carefully manicured gardens (with over a dozen varieties of fruit) surround the house, creating a true tropical oasis.
