Property Details

Nestled on two hectares (20,000 m²) of lush tropical land in Rancho Delicioso, Las Delicias, this unique eco-home offers a rare combination of sustainability, privacy, and natural beauty just minutes from Montezuma. Built in 2018, the 230 m² residence blends bamboo and wood construction with natural materials such as clay, straw, and traditional organic finishes. The result is an artistic and environmentally conscious home designed to live in harmony with the surrounding jungle landscape. The home features two bedrooms, one full bathroom, and an additional dry bathroom. The primary bedroom includes air conditioning for added comfort, while the open design of the house allows fresh air and natural light to flow throughout the space. Large openings frame beautiful valley and forest views, creating a peaceful atmosphere connected to nature. A Canadian air well system naturally ventilates the home and helps regulate interior temperature.
