Property Details

A rare blend of high-tech autonomy and barefoot luxury, this 5.4-acre mountain estate in Tinamastes offers a fully realized regenerative homestead just a short drive from Costa Rica's Pacific coast. Sitting several degrees cooler than the beach, with fresh valley breezes year-round, it delivers a perfectly comfortable climate for everyday life without the need for air conditioning. Designed for discerning buyers who value independence, wellness, and connection to nature, the property runs primarily off a powerful 9 kW Sol-Ark solar system with 20 kW of battery storage, backed up by the municipal grid by choice rather than necessity. High-speed internet blankets the property, allowing you to work remotely, stream, and stay connected while living in a private, self-sustaining sanctuary. The land & setting The 5.4-acre grounds are a walkable landscape of orchards, gardens, and forest, with trails leading from the main residence through four established fruit orchards, past greenhouses, cabin, and chicken coop, and down to a pristine river.
